Aeon Next Delivery held "Road Safety Class" at five elementary schools in Chiba City

Aeon Next Delivery Co., Ltd. (Representative Director and President: Tomohiro Nozawa) collaborated with Chiba Minami Police Station to hold Road Safety Class at five elementary schools in Chiba City.

The purpose of the "Road Safety Class" is to help children understand traffic rules, develop safe behavioral habits in their daily lives, and learn how to stay away from dangerous situations to avoid a traffic accident and what to do in emergencies. Police officers gave lectures and pedestrian safety education, while the participants had hands-on experience in checking difference between track followed by front and back inner wheels when turning as well as blind spots, with a delivery van of the company.

With an actual delivery van, children can feel the size and movement of the vehicle. They can also visually understand the limitations of a van driver's visibility and blind spots by sitting in the driver's seat by themselves. This helps children become aware of the dangers of acting near trucks and behave more cautiously. This experience can help raise children's safety awareness and thus contribute to realizing a safe and secure transportation society.

One of the children who participated said, "This class was helpful to learn there are a lot of blind spots even in a truck where visibility appears good from the driver's seat." Additionally, a teacher at the elementary school said, "This was the first time we had road safety training using an actual vehicle, and it was a good learning experience."

Aeon Next Delivery has been working hard so that everyone can live a safe daily life by utilizing the experiences of the "Road Safety Class." We will continue to hold "Road Safety Class" and work to contribute to local communities.
